Product details

Found in the bedrooms at Soho House Chicago and inspired by turn of the century design, Lexington is our largest and most glamorous light. A tiered waterfall chandelier, it features layers of hand-polished glass droplets on a brass-plated steel cage. Each glass prism has faceted edges that throw the light in different directions, creating a beautiful light pattern around the room. The totem designed bulb configuration means light is distributed equally throughout the chandelier. It would make an impact centralised in a dining room or on a spacious landing.

- Waterfall chandelier with tiers of glass droplet beads
- Faceted beads are hand polished
- Adjustable chain link fitting with brown fabric flex
- Antique brass plated steel cage
- Totem bulb configuration distributes light evenly
- Inspired by turn of the century chandeliers
- Suitable for use with the Tala Porcelain I & Pluto bulbs
