Product details

Burleigh's Creative Director, Steven Moore says 'Blue Arden was first introduced in 1862 when it was known as 'Hawthorn.' We made so much of it for 'Arden's Tea Rooms' that eventually it became known as 'Arden' in the factory and the name stuck.' With intricate cobalt blue hawthorn blossoms on a pure white background, Blue Arden reflects the Victorians' fascination with traditional Chinese porcelain patterns. Mix and match as we do at The Allis in White City House with Burleigh's Blue Asiatic Pheasants, Pale Blue Felicity and Blue Regal Peacock china.

- Set of four earthenware pasta bowls with gently scalloped edge
- Made by British pottery firm Burleigh
- Decorated with Burleigh's Blue Arden pattern featuring hawthorn blossoms
- Used in The Allis restaurant at White City House
