Product details

This decorative bowl showcases the unique and natural characteristics of petrified wood, a fossilised wood type from Indonesia that's more than 20 million years old. Further exploration has allowed us to discover a new white colourway to elevate the range. Each piece is individually cut, sanded and polished by skilled artisans in Indonesia, making every single one unique. Add it to your bookshelf or coffee table for a focal point that references the natural materials and textures seen throughout Soho Roc House, Mykonos.
