Product details

Born in Heidelberg, Karin Apollonia Mueller lives and works in LA. "By the sea" could be described as an intangible and preverbal moment. I would like to express the unforgettable feeling of being there, convey the exhilarating sense of being seduced by the flickering lights and magnetizing views to the deep blue sea, and the beguiling pleasure of drifting away into calmness and timelessness.' Kate Bryan, head of collections at Soho House, says: 'Known for her hazy streets and solitary figures in natural landscapes, portraying disconnectedness is Müller's hallmark. In this work, the lone figure is absent but due to the inclusion of the reflection of glass, we the viewer become the solitary figure looking out at the seascape.'
